

HOW DO WE TEACH ENGLISH TO ENGINEERING AND SCIENCE STUDENTS?

ELSAE and ALESS members at Komaba Writing Studio

Symposium

Invited speakers from Tsukuba University, University of Tokyo and several faculties of Hokkaido University (HU) will talk and discuss their English educational programs. How can we effectively enhance the English communication ability of engineering and science students?

When: 2016. March 15 (Tue)

13:00-17:00

Where: Room 813 (8th floor)

Graduate School of Life Science, Building #5.

This symposium is open for anybody who is interested in English education. No registration is necessary. Join us!

Speakers:

Thomas Mayers (Fac Med, Tsukuba Uni)

Martin O'Brien (ALESS, Uni Tokyo)

Kevin Wakeman (ALESS, Uni Tokyo/HU)

Natalya Shmakova (Fac Eng, HU)

Tomomichi Kato (Fac Agric, HU)

Michelle La Fay (Nitobe College, HU)

Ryouichi Tanaka (ELSAE, HU)

After the talk session, we will have a panel discussion.

Organizers:

F. Garcia-Martin, Y. Kim, K. Andrade, R. Tanaka
(Members of the English Learning for Science, Agriculture and Engineering program: HU)

Co-organized with the Nitobe College (HU)

Questions? Contact R. Tanaka (Inst Low Temp Sci) rtanaka@lowtem.hokudai.ac.jp