Constipation and Incident CKD

The study showed that constipation status and severity were associated with higher risk of incident chronic kidney disease (CKD) and end-stage renal disease (ESRD) and with progressive kidney function decline, independent of known risk factors.

Contact at University of Tsukuba: Prof. K Yamagata

The study is a result of a collaboration with Kovesdy教授 at Vanderbilt University, with contributions from the design and concept by University of Tsukuba.