

Graduate School of Comprehensive Human Science

◆ In Graduate School of Comprehensive Human Science, 26 degree programs related to education, psychology, disability, physical education, art, information, and medicine are in operation. The 29 Inter-disciplinary Foundation Courses, such as “Health and Fitness for Active Living,” “Investigating World Heritage,” and “Audio and Auditory Information,” are interdisciplinary and versatile subjects related to all aspects of human sciences. These courses, such as “Neuroscience for Understanding Mind,” “Visual Design for Research,” and “Scholarly Communication,” are extremely useful for students of other graduate schools as well. Students are expected to actively take these courses.
